Comments:

We had the website running semi-live for the last 30 days while certain new features were being designed, tweaked and tested.

We didn't advertise that the site was (unofficially) available on the Internet.

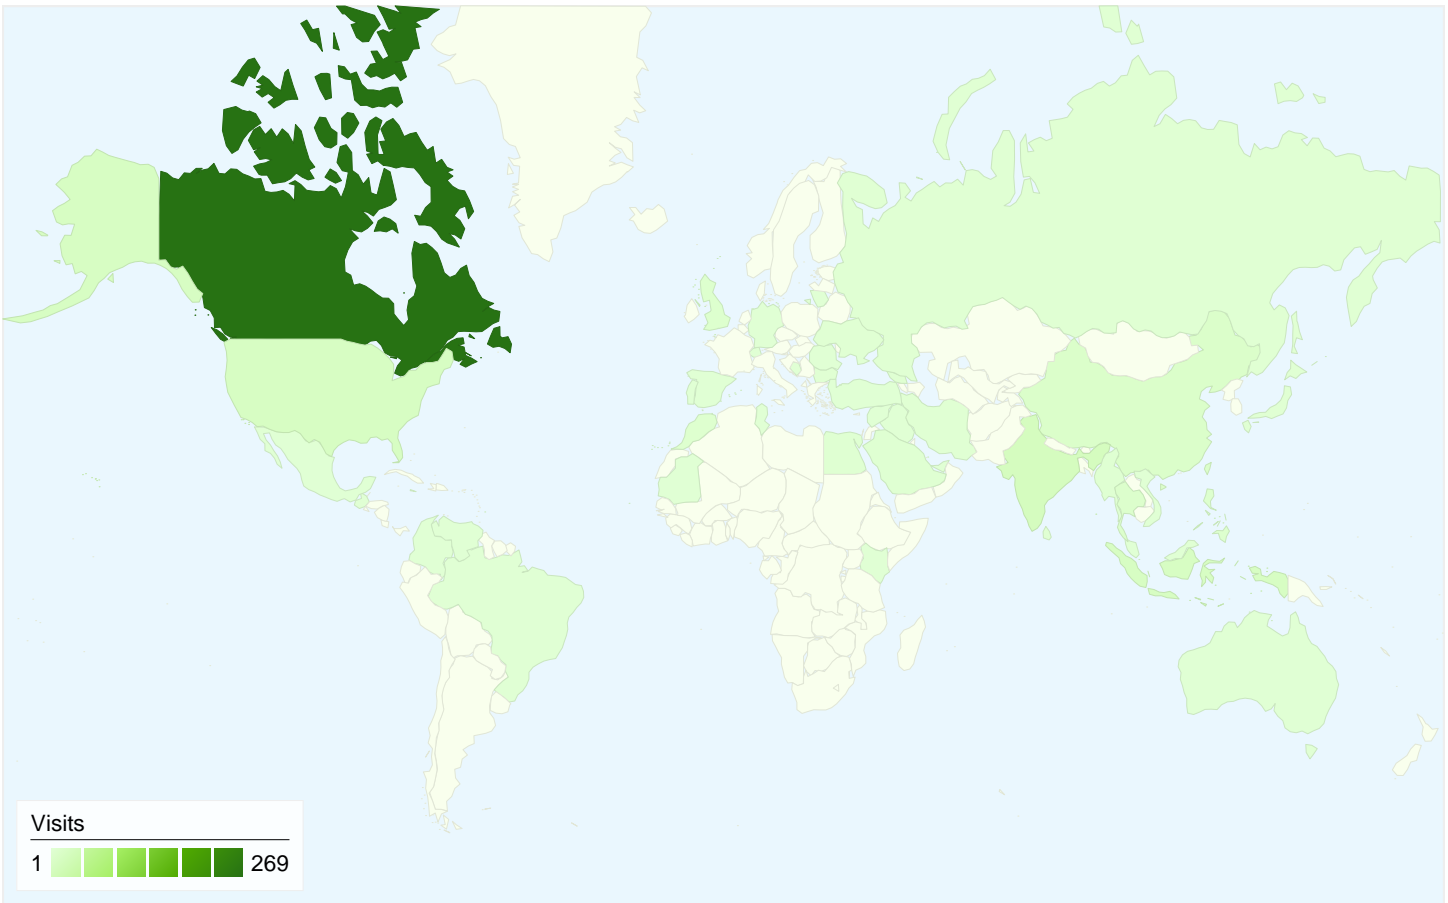

The site is under construction as we prepare for the official website launch date targeted for January 3, 2010.

We're excited that people were visiting the site from all over the world and e-mails we received offered enthusiastic compliments. The great majority of these early visitors requested that we continue to provide access to the site even as we build it. We're "honored" that our website seems to be so globally appealing.

All of the features we've added thus far are up and running. We'll be adding all the new features "live-as-they-appear" for those who have requested that we do so.

Thank you to all those enthusiastic early visitors who enjoy our website.

We'll continue to leave the site open for pre-launch visits and previews as we construct the final features.
